Taft and Bryan Guests at Annual Banquet of Chicago Association of Commerce.

A DISPLAY OF FRIENDLINESS.

Both Made Speeches, Which Were in Best of Taste and Humor, Polities Being Avoided.

Chicago, Oct. 7 .- William J. Bryan and William H. Taft, rival candidates for the presidency of the United States, met tonight at the annual banquet of the Chicago Association of

Mr. Bryan having been in Chicago all day was the first to arrive. Judge Taft having delivered a speech at the opening of the deep waterways convention in the forenoon went to Galesburg and delivered another address during the afternoon and returned to Chicago tonight after the banquet was

Interest in the meeting had been manifested since it became known that the two candidates were to meet in public and every seat in three ban-puet halls at the Auditorium, thrown together for the occasion, was occupied when the first course was served, save only a commodious chair reserved for Judge Taft.

An ear-splitting shout gave warning of the arrival of Judge Taft, Mr. Bryan, in common with everyone else, arose and took a step toward the entrance. A huge frome, moving like a ship among a swarm of tugs, came slowly up the narrow aisle between two tables. Those at a distance occasionally could catch a glimpse of smilling faces acknowledging greetings.

Mr. Bryan, who had ceased in the destruction of some sort of chop suey masquerading under a French name, turned his head slowly as his political rival drew near, smilling slightly.

The dramatic moment which had been anticipated with such deep interest was soon over. Mr. Bryan's hand awaited that of Mr. Taft, A single lingering pressure, a word or so which none could overhear because of the tumult, and the Republican leader passed on to a chair at the right of Mr. Hall, The chering continued for a minute or so after those at the speakers' table had taken their seats. At the first moment the noise subsided, Mr. Bryan leaning to one, side and smilling broadly, asked Mr. Taft if he "had a good day." one side and smiling broadly, asked Mr. Taft if he "had a good day."

BILL'S ALL RIGHT.

This display of friendliness on the part of the two candidates stirred the crowd to renewed chering and words being useless in the din, Mr. Taft stroked his throat for answer. Then Taft laughed, and the applause What's the matter with Bill?

a song by the guests to restore a sem-blance of quiet.

When talking in ordinary tones became possible the two candidates entered into a mutual conversation, in which President Hall Joined.

The speeches of both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan were not partisan. This was in consonance with the wishes of the Chicago association of commerce, which is a non-partisan organization.

When the last course had been served both of the distinguished guests were least busy signing means which were kept busy signing menus which were passed up over the mass of or-chids in front of their section of the

Meanwhile the banquet hall remained in good natured disorder. The orchestra played incessantly, but the music was almost drowned in the babel of shouts and songs. 'We're here because we're here" was

Mr. Bryan was cheered to the echo as he arose to speak. Cheers and laughter followed his humorous touch-es that characterized his opening re-

Mr. Bryan spoke of commerce as the great molding force in the world, and said that society had largely gained through one of the great institutions and that has made largely for the enlargement of commerce—the corporate entity. "The corporation," he continued, "Is a step in advance. It enables people to do together what people could not do alone. It relleves those who co-operate of embarrassments and it substitutes larger operations and thus facilitates the work of exchange, and none who has estimated with intelligence, the usefulness of the corporation will for one minute think of destroying the power that the corporation gives for co-operative efforts. But with every new step in adforts. But with every new step in ad-

"When the railroad took the place of the turnpike, laws were necessary that were not for the highway, but society recognized that the railroad had become a necessity, adjusted itself to the railroad and then proceeded by legislation to correct whatever abuses might tion to correct whatever abuses might arise in the management of railroads. And so society, accepting the corporation as an established fact, is proceeding to enact such laws as may be necessary to make the corporations serve the purpose for which they were created, and I am sure that the members of the association, this association organized for the promotion of the city's interests, for the development of the citizens' commerce, and for the advancement of the city's good, recognize that with the large power that corporate action gives restriction is necessary. There is a difference benecessary. There is a difference between the corporate man and the natural man. There is a difference in the creation. God made man and placed him on His footstool to carry out a divine decree. Man made the corporation for a material purpose. When God made man He did not make the strenger man much strenger; then the made man He did not make the strongest man much stronger than the a favorite.

For the accomplishment of this purpose the president sent to the Filipinos a typi-cal citizen and eminent counselor, and a man with the courage of his convic-tions. He accomplished the high purpose of his mission, winning both the confidence of his countrymen and the love and gratitude of a nation. Success and honor have crowned his every effort in an active life as citizen, jurist, peace-maker and cabinet officer. peace-maker and cabinet officer. Through all his career and in our in-sular possessions he has stood for the integrity of his government and the majesty of right. Gentlemen, Mr. Taft.'

TAFT'S RESPONSE. Mr. Taft, whose rising was greeted with another outburst of violent cheer-ing, prefaced his prepared speech with a few impromptu remarks which creat

And I reciprocate in every way and to the full his kindly and courteous words of respect and good will. With him I have recently been subjected to a considerable strain. But the experiences of today have been almost more than I could bear. One non-partisan speech is a good deal of a burden (Mr. Eryan led in the metriment) when you are in other kind of practise. And to have to make three inside of nine hours, I submit to my distinguished fellow guest and opponent, is cruelty to any man." (Laughter.)

Mr. Taft discussed inequalities in the administration of justice, saying:

"All our institutions are now being subjected to close scrutiny with a view to proving that some of them should be radically changed. The chief attack is on the institution of private property and is based upon the inequalities in the distribution of wealth and of human handings made appreciation. human happiness made apparent in our system. I believe that the interests of private property, next to those of personal liberty, have had much to do with the uplifting and with the physical and moral improvement of the whole human race, but that it is not inconsistent with the rints of private property to impose limitations upon its use for unlawful purposes, and that this is the reform needed rather than the is the reform needed rather than the abolition of the institution itself. An evil which is likely to grow in importance is the inequalty between the poor and the rich growing out of the delays in the abninistration of justice between individuals. As between wealthy litigants, where each party is able to pay the expenses of litigation and to undergo for the time the loss of interest on the capital involved, our present system, while not perfect, does not call for anxiety.

"A defect of our system is seen in the unequal burden which the delays and expenditures of litigation impose on the poor litigant. The reform must

Such a system is working well in England, as I am informed.

I am informed.
"Again, I believe a great reform might be effected, especially in the state courts, by a mandatory reduction of the court costs and fees."

With the conclusion of Mr. Taft's speech the banquet ended.

The candidates shook hands cordially and parted, although they were delayed in leaving the hall by a rush of guests who wished to obtain their autographs.

DECISION ON "O. K."

Fribune from Fort Wayne, Ind., says: Judge Heaton, of the superior court neld yesterday that the letters "O.K." written on the back on an order for money are equivalent to an endorsement. The case in which the decision vas made grew out of a refusal of the McBride Electric company, of Chicago, to pay for material bought by a suo-contractor for a municipal lighting plant, which the McBride company was building.

Washington, Oct. 8.—The greater portion of the world's tonnage for several months has remained unproductive, reports Consul General Deldrich, of Antwerp, in furnishing statistics concerning the depressed condition of the world shipping trade. "Transportation of raw material, cement, rails and structural material, of all kinds which forms one of the greatest trades of Antwerp fell off to an extent hitherto unknown. The same ap-pears in the reports of other count-ries.

Since the beginning of the present

Since the beginning of the present year, Rotterdam has lost 744,000 tons over the same period of 1907, and Antwerp 228,000 tons. The home ports of the great ocean liners are filled with steamers lying idle and even at Antwerp, which is only a port of call, over 30 big steamers are laid up. Passenger steamers coming from South America to Europe have obliged to pay for the privilege of carrying grain in order to get ballast. Freight rates to India have been reduced.

Similar conditions prevail in the emigration business. In July, 1907, the Red Star line transported from Antwerp to New York 5,170 third class passengers, while last July the same company carried only 5,110.

The outlook for better conditions at the beginning of 1909 however seems good.

This work, which was begun in 1890, and printed in three large volumes (the fourth volume issued being biographical, and not a part of the direct history of Utah), is one of the largest and most exhaustive histories ever compiled of any western state. The three volumes bring the history of the state from the foundation down to the year 1890, at the time of the issuance of the manifesto, and includes the history of the Church from its organization in New York. The first ten chapters are

In the three volumes are included 235 full page steel plates, mostly portraits of leading figures in the history of the State, originally obtained at a cost of many thousand dollars. The volumes each contain approximately 800 pages, a total of 2,351 pages in the three. The binding is quarto size, full morocco with gilt edges, no other style of binding being issued.

The three volumes were originally sold at $30.00, and several thousand sets were placed throughout the state at that figure. The "News" having obtained the unsold copies of the edition, will place them on the market at the coming October Conference and sell to the first comers at half the original price, or $15.00 for the three volumes. No single volumes will be sold.
